WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 18

7:00 AM – 8:00 AM

American Healthcare: At the Crossroads Again

MARC SAUVE, Strategist

America's healthcare system remains at a crossroads with mounting pressure from all directions. At the intersection of partisan gamesmanship, regulatory ridicule, & demographic realities, stand the merchants of medicine holding us hostage. Combining the latest research and a front-line planning role, Sauve provides an informed, insightful view of the state of the industry. Unlike the academics, he pulls no punches on why healthcare solutions are slow to melt legacy business models.

9:30 AM – 10:45 AM

Creating a Healthcare Experience for New Generations

GINA BLEEDORN, Chief Experience Officer, Adrenaline

As digital disruption continues to shift the paradigm of physical healthcare experiences, no consumers are more demanding of providers to meet them on their terms than Gen Y (Millennials) and Gen Z. These new generations are armed with more power and choice than ever as they decide how they want to receive medical care. Highly discerning of brands, Millennials and their Gen Z juniors expect the same experiences from healthcare that they get from other industries not often those that are far more advanced in consumer-centricity. The new normal of experience expectations is already here, and the transformation of healthcare is at a tipping point in adapting (or failing) to meet them. In this session, discover what new generations want and how you can evolve your facilities to stay relevant to them and not get left behind.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 19

11:00 AM – 12:15 PM

"We are all designers of World Health"- Leland Kaiser

ALBERTO SALVATORE, AIA, EDAC, Associate Principal | National Healthcare Design Leader, HED

DIANA ANDERSON, MD, M.ARCH, Founder, Dochtect, Clinical Fellow UCSF

DR. NEEL SHAH MD MPP FACOG, Assistant Professor of Obstetrics, Gynecology and Reproductive Biology, Harvard Medical School and Director of the Delivery Decisions Initiative, Harvard's Ariadne Labs

We will strongly advocate for a shift in mindset to consider Architects & Designers as Public Health Professionals. From a person who designs buildings and advises in their construction to a person who designs and guides a plan or undertaking. We believe as Architects we can design plans that reach beyond the design of buildings, plans that allow us to envision connections & mutually supportive & sustainable organizations that have never been seen before. Ideas that destroy the silos that have created our current state & imagine a future state that allows equitable access to health for all. Evidence continues to emerge that supports the potential positive impact that the built environment can have on wellbeing. It has been said that "Design is not neutral" it either contributes in a positive or negative way to our health.

SPECIAL FEATURES

PRE-CONFERENCE WORKSHOP

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 16

1:00 PM – 5:00 PM

Separate registration required

SEEING IN 3P: AN IMMERSIVE WORKSHOP

Warning: This highly interactive workshop may disrupt your usual design process. The nature of the experience may result in the following symptoms:

- Sudden ability to make decisions
- Increased user satisfaction
- Reduction in project timelines
- Elimination of late design changes

3P (Production, Preparation, Process) workshops are an effective method for bringing together the multi-disciplinary stakeholders of a healthcare design project. Through collaborative lean exercises that focus on process and function, the events help eliminate waste, create durable decisions and ultimately reduce the project design schedule. While 3Ps are typically multi-day events, this workshop will provide an intensive environment for all participants to experience the primary components of a 3P in a condensed timeframe. Attendees will bring their unique perspectives to work together to create a conceptual design.

SPEAKERS:

Andrew Brumbach, AIA, EDAC, Senior Associate, Architecture, SmithGroupJJR
Adriane Cody, AIA, Planner, SmithGroup
Peter DeSimone, Senior Planner, SmithGroup

THE HEALTHCARE EXECUTIVE LEADERS PROGRAM

PRESENTED BY DR. WAYNE RUGA, FAIA, FIIDA, HON. FASID

SEPTEMBER 16-19, 2019

Join us for an exclusive advanced leadership learning opportunity during the Healthcare Facilities Symposium & Expo!

The Generative Space method is an innovative and highly practical approach that is designed to improve your organization's performance. This original approach has been developed during the past 20 years through the hands-on experience, research, teaching, and documented evidence of Dr. Wayne Ruga, FAIA, FIIDA, Hon. FASID.

As testimony of the power of this approach to make lasting improvements, an attendee from the inaugural 2018 ELP program stated that the:

'...application of the techniques I learned has rendered immediate benefits for me and those with whom I interact. I recommend this program to any leader facing significant organizational change. The concept of creating a generative space has given me completely new perspectives on my approach to continuous improvement and implementing new initiatives.'

This is a special, space-limited opportunity to work directly and intensively with Dr. Ruga, guest faculty, and a small group of like-minded pioneers in learning a practical method that is a new, emerging, best practice in health, healthcare, and design. This special program is being offered in collaboration with the HFSE, and will also provide limited, optional, Generative Space-relevant opportunities for engaging with the HFSE event.

Separate Registration is Required for the ELP. Visit hcarefacilities.com/landing4.asp for more information
